FRIDAY, JUNE 17.

The yellow New York journals are not feeling well these days; fake news pays no longer.

Even his enemies do not say that Mr. McKinley's Hawaiian policy is "weak and vacillating."

The stock interests of the territory are flourishing this year, war or no war. Providence is good to New Mexico this season.

This war is a great harmonizer, to be sure, but the McKisson-Kurtz faction and the Hanna people in Ohio do not seem to be getting together very fast.

How have the mighty fallen. From the high seat of a senator of the United States, the great Pfeiffer has descended to running for governor of Kansas on the Prohibition ticket. But water seeks its level.

The queen regent of Spain declares that the Spanish people need the virtues of resignation and fortitude. The queen regent is eminently correct. She will not succeed in getting up a row with the NEW MEXICAN on that line.

The export trade of this country is enormous and growing constantly. The war seems to have no perceptible influence over it. That is a great point in favor of the Republican policy of protection to home manufactures.

The "sighting" of these mysterious fleets in the Gulf of Mexico, in Cuban waters, in the Caribbean sea, on the north Atlantic coast, in New Foundland waters or any other old place is getting very tiresome. A la Farragut, "damn the fleets, take Cuba."

Our volunteers are getting to know what they are about and in another month they will know all about it. The American volunteer, with three month's camp experience and drill, makes a first class soldier in every respect; intelligence counts.

Spain's case shows that it does not do to hang on too long to real estate. A short while ago that monarchy could have had $200,000,000 for Cuba and another $200,000,000 for the Philippine Islands, but the chances are now gone, never to return.

The success of the new 3 per cent loan, authorized under the war revenue act, recently passed, is assured. The New York banks alone desire to take $200,000,000 of these bonds at one pop. No other nation on earth could place a $400,000,000 loan in 3 per cent bonds on the market and have it subscribed for at home in one week. The United States is all right.

A Paris dispatch says: "When Cuba has been captured by the Americans, then the European powers will force Spain to close the war." Rot. The United States will force Spain to do that without the aid or interference of any European nation. As far as this war is concerned the successes so far have all been on the side of the Americans. It has been a very one sided affair.

Since assuming the office of associate justice of the Territorial Supreme court and presiding judge of this district, Judge John R. McFie has been quite busy. Important cases from other districts have been sent to this district quite frequently and in addition to the regular business of the first district much outside business, thus referred, has been attended to by the judge. He is a hard worker and dispatches business rapidly.

Tammany runs Greater New York. The organization claims to be faithful and a loyal supporter of the Chicago free silver platform. It is therefore rather singular, that the Tammany city government should be about to proceed to borrow $10,000,000 on bonds, principal and interest payable in gold. Tammany's professions and Tammany's acts do not hit to any alarming degree.

On the morning of June 14 Colonel Huntington's battalion of United States marines, aided by a body of insurgents, attacked a Spanish camp in Guantanamo bay, held by a superior force, and drove the Spaniards from their position with a loss of 40 killed and 18 prisoners. The American loss was two Cubans killed, four wounded and two marines wounded. That's the sort of news that is cheering and welcome and at that ratio Captain General Blanco's forces will have to leave the island of Cuba within a short time, despite all of the captain general's assertions that the Spanish troops would rather die than evacuate the now unfaithful Isle.

A Sudden Change of Sentiment.
In the midst of alarm it is certainly gratifying to the American people to receive the intelligence that neither Russia nor France, and still less England, would attempt to turn the success of the United States at Manila to the advantage of Germany. In addition to this information the correspondent of the London paper which made the announcement that America would not be molested in managing the Philippine question to suit the will of the people, says that the international jealousies of the European nations will prevent interference whatever in the matter. It is very apparent that a change has come over the European powers regarding the fighting abilities of the United States in the past two months.

It has not been very long since England was sneering at this country as a "fourth-rate power," and now Great Britain is very anxious to form an alliance with this "fourth-rate power" for the purpose of controlling the world in the matters of territory and commerce. Only a short time ago Emperor William was almost daring America to espouse the cause of Cuba, while France and Austria were fairly aching to teach the presumptuous Yankees a lesson in international politeness. And now the United States is assured that whatever is done by the government is all right and no wrong can be done by so powerful a nation. It seems to be another case of "the king is dead, long live the king."

Somehow the idea is growing that the rapidly with which this country has emerged from the standing of a fourth-rate power to that of a first-rate, fearless naval nation, has had a great deal to do with the sudden change of sentiment in Europe. In this change of attitude and the deterrence which is paid the stars and stripes by former haughty neighbors there is a moral which will not be lost upon the people of this country; and that is, "in times of peace be ready for a fight the first time it is offered." Peaceable intentions and isolation by water are all well enough so far as they go, but it costs less in the long run to be prepared for any emergency.

The American navy is now second only to that of Great Britain, the standing army has been increased more than one-half, and in the future when troublous times, which is to be hoped never will be the case, there will be no delays of months in getting ready for war. The very fact that the country is prepared for war will prevent it.

A Death Unwel.

These are sad days for the Democratic party. In Kansas yesterday the political funeral in that state of the old party of obstruction and free trade was held with but little of the pomp usually attending such solemn occasions. The party of Jefferson and a past simply allowed itself to be swallowed by the Populists without a struggle and all was over. No burial was necessary. There were no remains to be consigned to the tomb of oblivion. The Populists simply said die and death resulted, leaving nothing but an unsavory memory to mark the place where the last convention of the untimely was held.

It is not to be supposed, however, that the balance of the organization will give up the fight so easily. In the eastern and middle states, and possibly in New Mexico, conventions will be held and tickets will be nominated in the hopes of resuscitating the corpse and something of a struggle may be made to keep up party organization a little longer, but that is all the effort will amount to. The past six years have been particularly hard on the old party. The Cleveland administration, of which so much was expected and so little realized except disaster; and the past two years of prosperity in the face of direful predictions of all manner of calamity, have served to draw a powerful contrast. The brilliant success which has attended the efforts of the Republican party to advance the country in wealth and general prosperity, and the miserable failure of the Democrats to even fulfill the promises made in the campaign of 1892 have decided the voters as to which party should be in power.

The action of the Sunflower Democrats in giving up the fight and endorsing the Populist ticket was an acknowledgment of defeat before the first gun of the campaign was fired, and the same lassitude pervades the party the whole country over. Hopeless, leaderless; deserted by the greater part of the rank and file, the future for the once powerful Democratic party is dark indeed. But the country can stand such a condition with great composure, when it is to be taken into consideration that a political organization will take its place which may possibly have some object in view aside from "reaffirming allegiance to the principals of Democracy as outlined in the Chicago platform of the year steen hundred and steenty."
